Independent Auditors' Report

We have audited the accompanying balance sheets of American Network Securities Corporation as of October 31, 2002 and 2001, and the related statements of income, retained earnings, and cash flows for the years then ended. These financial statements are the responsibility of the Company's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audits.

We conducted our audits in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audits to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audits provide a reasonable basis for our opinion.

Our audits were made for the purpose of forming an opinion on the basic financial statements taken as a whole. The accompanying supplemental schedules of other operating expenses and computation of net capital are presented for purposes of additional analysis and are not a required part of the basic financial statements. Such information has been subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audits of the basic financial statements and, in our opinion, is fairly stated in all material respects in relation to the basic financial statements taken as a whole.

The Company maintains its operations in accordance with subparagraph (k)(2)(ii) of Rule 15c3-3 of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934; and as a result is not subject to other provisions of that rule. Accordingly, the Company did not safekeep nor handle securities and, therefore, did not have procedures established for such.

Board of Directors and Stockholders
American Network Securities Corporation

A reconciliation of the computation of net capital with the Company's corresponding most recent unaudited FOCUS report, Part IIA of the Financial and Operational Combined Uniform Single Report, did not disclose any material differences, only minor discrepancies, as described in the attached supplementary schedule.

In our opinion, the financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of American Network Securities Corporation as of October 31, 2002 and 2001, and the results of its operations and its cash flows for the years then ended, in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.

Independent Auditors' Report of Internal Accounting Control Required by SEC Rule 17a-5

We have audited the financial statements of American Network Securities Corporation as of October 31, 2002, and have issued our report thereon dated December 4, 2002. As part of our audit we considered the Company's internal control structure to the extent we considered necessary to evaluate the system as required by generally accepted auditing standards. The purpose of our study and evaluation, which included obtaining an understanding of the accounting system, was to determine the nature, timing, and extent of the auditing procedures necessary for expressing an opinion on the financial statements and not to provide assurance on the internal control structure.

Also, as required by Rule 17a-5(g)(1) of the Securities and Exchange Commission, ("the Commission"), we have made a study of the practices and procedures (including tests of compliance with such practices and procedures) followed by American Network Securities Corporation that we considered relevant to the objectives stated in Rule 17a-5(g)(1), in making the periodic computations of aggregate indebtedness and net capital under Rule 17a-3(a)(11).

The management of the Company is responsible for establishing and maintaining a system of internal accounting control and the practices and procedures referred to in the preceding paragraph. In fulfilling this responsibility, estimates and judgements by management are required to assess the expected benefits and related cost of control procedures and the practices and procedures referred to in the preceding paragraph and to assess whether those practices and procedures can be expected to achieve the Commission's above mentioned objectives. Two of the objectives of an internal control structure and the practices and procedures are to provide management with reasonable, but not absolute, assurance that assets for which the Company has responsibility are safeguarded against loss from unauthorized use or disposition, and that transactions are executed in accordance with management's authorization and recorded properly to permit preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles. Rule 17a-5(g) lists additional objectives of the practices and procedures listed in the preceding paragraph.

Because of inherent limitations in any internal control structure or the practices and procedures referred to above, errors or irregularities may occur and not be detected. Also, projection of any evaluation of them to future periods is subject to the risk that they may become inadequate because of changes in conditions or that the effectiveness of their design and operation may deteriorate.

Our consideration of the internal control structure would not necessarily disclose all matters in the internal control structure that might be material weaknesses under standards established by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants. A material weakness is a condition in which the design or operation of the specific internal control structure elements does not reduce to a relatively low level the risk that errors or irregularities in amounts that would be material in relation to the financial statements being audited may occur and not be detected within a timely period by employees in the normal course of performing their assigned functions. However, we noted no matters involving the internal control structure that we consider to be material weaknesses as defined above.

We understand that practices and procedures that accomplish the objectives referred to in the second paragraph of this report are considered by the Commission to be adequate for its purposes in accordance with the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and related regulations, and that practices and procedures that do not accomplish such objectives in all material respects indicate a material inadequacy for such purposes. Based on this understanding and on our study, we believe that the Company's practices and procedures were adequate at October 31, 2002, to meet the Commission's objectives.

This report is intended solely for the use of management, the Securities and Exchange Commission, the New York Stock Exchange and other regulatory agencies which rely on Rule 17a-5(g) under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and should not be used for any other purpose.

SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

Business Activity and Concentration of Credit Risk

American Network Securities Corporation was incorporated January 24, 1983, under the laws of the State of Arizona and commenced operations August 12, 1983, per authority of NASD (National Association of Security Dealers). The Company is a registered securities dealer which maintains an office in Sun City, Arizona. The Company's primary source of revenue is commission income on the sale of securities.

Accounting Method

The Company uses the accrual method of accounting for financial statements and income tax reporting. Securities transactions and related commission revenue and expense are recorded on a settlement date basis. Mutual fund transactions and related commission revenue and expense are recorded on a transaction date basis.

Estimates

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Cash Equivalents

For purposes of the Statements of Cash Flows, the Company considers all highly liquid investments purchased with an original maturity of ninety days or less to be cash equivalents.

The Company maintains cash at various institutions that may exceed federally insured amounts at times. Account balances are insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation up to $100,000. As of October 31, 2002, no account exceeds $100,000.

See auditors' report dated December 4, 2002.

Accounts Receivable

The Company estimates that it will not have any losses on existing receivables as all receivables are current (i.e. thirty days or less); therefore, it has not provided any allowance for doubtful accounts.

Investment

The Company owns nonmarketable equity securities in a corporation, which is accounted for at cost.

Property, Equipment and Depreciation

Assets are carried at cost and include expenditures for new additions and those which substantially increase the useful lives of existing assets. Retained Commissions

The Company transacts all of its securities business through a member of a national securities exchange. The commissions earned by the Company are deposited to an account in its name held at the clearing broker. This account represents those commissions the Company has not yet requested a check for.
